I remember the day the space shuttle Challenger exploded. We just came out of our Accounting class and headed upstairs to the Student Union to check our mail between classes; and a friend of ours came running out of the game room towards us, telling us, "the space shuttle just exploded"! Students started to crowd into the game room, television room, or where ever there was a television set, to watch the event repeat itself all day. The library (that late afternoon) set up a small memorial dedicated to the Challenger crew, with all the pictures of each astronaut and group photo. We remembered them; and that our dreams will continue, and I felt a deep sympathy for their families. It was quite a day.

Mrs. Fishco. My English 101 instructor. She had an awesome personality, a great ability to education, she motivated and encouraged me to pursue my education by learning to write more with creativity and imagination. I used that knowledge to pursue a minor in communication. Thank you, Mrs. Fisco. You taught me to be more confident in expressing myself in writing and in oral communication.
